DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-16 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. These claims contradict what is disclosed in the specification by stating "at least one" bow sight housing and bow sight, when there is no indication of there being more than one of each.

3. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. There is no structural relationship between the encasement and the bow sight.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

5. Claims 1-6, 7-8, 11-13, and 17-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being unpatentable by USPN 6,418,633 to Rager.

Numerals A and B have been added to Figure 1 by the examiner in reference to a certain component disclosed by Rager. See copy attached at the end of this action.

Rager discloses a bow sight (12) comprising at least one bow sight housing (32), said bow sight housing having at least one sight pin (20a-e); at least one light collecting mechanism (26a-e) carried by said bow sight housing, wherein said at least one light collecting mechanism defines at least one coil shape; said light collecting mechanism defines a plurality of coil shapes; said bow sight housing encases said light collecting mechanism; said light collecting mechanism is at least one fiber optic filament (column 2, lines 23-28); said fiber optic filament is carried in a coil fashion by said bow sight housing; a support (A), wherein said fiber optic filament is wrapped multiple times around said support, said fiber optic filament is at least partially carried by said sight pin, and said support is substantially encased within said bow sight housing; at least one bow sight (12), said bow sight being rotatable (column 4, lines 41-49) and having at least one sight pin (20a-e); at least one light collector (26a-e); at least one encasement (B) for housing said light collector; said optical filament is coiled within said bow sight and is at least partially carried by said sight pin; said fiber optic filament is coiled a plurality of revolutions within said encasement (B); normal manufacture of the device disclosed by Rager comprises the method steps of coiling at least one fiber optic filament (26a-e) around a support (A); positioning one end (20a-e) of said fiber optic filament within a bow sight (12); said fiber optic filament is a plurality of fiber optic filaments.

Art Unit: 2859

With respect to the encasement being removable: In a broad sense, any structure, to a degree is removable, since any structure may be removed by any means, if so desired. Therefore, in a broad sense, the encasement disclosed by Rager is considered to be "removable."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 9-10 and 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rager.

Rager discloses the device as described above in paragraph 2.

Rager does not disclose the said fiber optic filament and support (11) being housed within said encasement (B).

Rager discloses the fiber optic filaments and support being outside the said encasement. Changing the location of the support holding the fiber optic filaments to inside the encasement, absent any criticality, is only considered to be an obvious modification of Rager that a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made would be able to provide using routine experimentation in order for the fiber optic filaments and support to be better protected, and since the courts have held that there is no invention in shifting the position if the operation of the device would not be thereby modified. In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70 (CCPA 1950).
